

Maggie Hutchison is a native West Virginian. She has owned a home in Lewisburg on the Greenbrier River since 1989, and in retirement, it became her permanent residence. She returned to the state full-time in 2013 after a successful career with the Naval Air Systems Command and subsequent consulting work. She has applied her organizational and strategic planning skills in leadership positions with several local organizations, including the Family Activity Center, Greenbrier River Trail Association/Foundation, and Homes for White Sulphur Springs.

She loves WV and Greenbrier County and is focused on ensuring the Strategic and Business Plans developed by the Board for the Family Activity Center are executed. Public service has always been important to her, as demonstrated by her Federal service and extensive volunteer work.
